

March 7, 2022

To: UBC PGME residents in years 2-7 (R2-R7) commencing a UBC residency program on July 1, 2022 (i.e., who were not enrolled in a UBC residency training program during the prior academic year)

Re: Save the Date – June 28, 2022 Occupational Health and Safety Orientation

The health authorities are hosting a provincial occupational health and safety orientation for all residents commencing a UBC residency program on June 28, 2022. The event will consist of a virtual orientation session on Zoom approximately 4 hours in duration, as well as a series of online modules that must be completed before July 1, 2022.

The provincial OH&S orientation will include, but is not limited to:

1. Health Authority OH&S Overview
2. Provincial Violence Prevention Curriculum (PVPC) E-Learning Module
3. Workplace Hazardous Material Information System (WHMIS)
4. Musculoskeletal Prevention Program (MSIP)
5. Hazardous/Cytotoxic Drug Awareness
6. Infection Prevention and Control
7. Radiation Safety Basics

Provided you attend the virtual session on June 28, 2022 and complete the online modules in advance of July 1, 2022, you will be provided your regular hourly rate for the day.

Further details about participating in the orientation will be provided as soon as they are available.
